From the front, Kildare looks like a traditional village Victorian red brick cottage, but step inside and you'll quickly realise there's far more on offer than first impressions suggest.

Since purchasing the property, the current owners have carried out an impressive transformation, creating a stylish home that's ready to move straight into. It's not simply a case of fresh décor either. A superb Wren kitchen, beautifully refitted bathroom, new flooring throughout and a host of improvements behind the scenes have all contributed to creating a home that's as practical as it is attractive.

The accommodation is surprisingly spacious for a property of this style. The living room is a warm and welcoming space centred around a wood-burning stove, perfect for cosy evenings, whilst the adjoining dining room creates a natural flow through the ground floor, making it equally suited to everyday family life and entertaining. Completing the ground floor is the stylishly refitted family bathroom. The kitchen is undoubtedly one of the standout features. Recently replaced with a quality Wren kitchen, it offers generous storage, excellent workspace and a contemporary finish that complements the character of the property beautifully.

Upstairs are three bedrooms, continuing the standard of presentation found throughout the house.

Outside, the improvements continue. To the front is the convenience of off-road parking, whilst the rear garden is much longer than you might expect. Recently landscaped with porcelain paving, lawn and thoughtfully planted borders, it's designed to be enjoyed with plenty of space for children, gardening or simply relaxing in the sunshine.

At the far end of the garden sits a substantial timber building that adds another dimension to the property. Whether you're looking for a home office, gym, studio, workshop, hobby room or somewhere for teenagers to escape to, it's an incredibly versatile space that could easily adapt as your needs change.

The property is currently heated by the wood-burning stove, with no central heating system installed, giving buyers the opportunity to choose and install the heating solution that best suits their own preferences.

For buyers looking for a home where the hard work has already been done, both inside and out, Kildare offers a fantastic opportunity to simply move in and enjoy everything it has to offer.
