About the Area

Pitfour Castle is an 18th-century country house situated on the southeast edge of the village of St Madoes in the Carse of Gowrie, Perthshire, Scotland.

Local amenities at St Madoes include a small shop, two parks, a primary school and an 18th-century church built upon the remains of an earlier church.

The Madoch centre in St. Madoes which is run by the local parish church also offers a café, function rooms, games hall, playpark, soft play and astroturf pitch for tennis, games, basketball or netball.

Recently the village has started expanding due to the building of a large housing estate.

It is located near Errol, between Dundee and Perth.

Property Summary

Set within the impressive Pitfour Castle on the edge of St Madoes in the Carse of Gowrie, this unique home forms part of an elegant 18th-century country residence attributed in style to the renowned architect Robert Adam. The castle has been carefully restored over time, allowing it to retain its historic character while offering comfortable modern living.

The property is accessed at ground floor level into an entrance area leading to a distinctive and characterful hallway which provides access to the main accommodation. The contemporary kitchen is fitted with a range of modern units, integrated appliances and quality finishes, creating a practical and stylish space. A versatile sitting room offers flexibility for a variety of uses and gives access to a convenient cloakroom.

A particularly striking feature of the home is the dining room, set within a former cellar and showcasing exposed stonework and a recessed arch, providing a truly unique setting for entertaining. This leads through to an impressive drawing room, a bright and spacious public room with large sash and case windows overlooking the communal grounds, complemented by an ornamental fireplace and elegant period detailing.

The property offers two generously proportioned double bedrooms, both benefitting from excellent storage. The principal bedroom includes a walk-in wardrobe and en-suite bathroom, while the second bedroom also enjoys en-suite facilities. Character features such as cornicing and ceiling roses further enhance the overall appeal.

Externally, there is ample off-street parking to the front, while to the rear a private paved patio provides an ideal space for outdoor dining and relaxation, with access to the surrounding communal gardens and orchard grounds. This is a rare opportunity to acquire a distinctive home combining historic charm with spacious and flexible living.
