This stunning Grade 2 listed farmhouse dates back to the 1600's and oozes charm from every angle. Life here is about enjoying the tranquil atmosphere and being able to share it with both friends and family, soaking up the Suffolk scene. This is what drew the current owners here – the setting, the atmosphere, the unique feeling of peace.

Step Inside

This beautiful, thatched Grade 2 listed home, has been lovingly restored to allow contemporary living whilst retaining the integrity of the home, and is named after the original Pot Ash where fertilizer originated from. The kitchens and bathrooms have all been replaced but always staying true to the history of the building blending modern convenience and practicality with ancient, weathered beams and stone floors.

From the characterful and inviting entrance hall you are taken into a beautiful beamed and bright sitting room with patio doors to the garden to catch the first morning sun and gas fired wood burner effect heater for cosy winter nights in. The kitchen come dining room is accessed from the hall and boasts a stunning aga as well as a contemporary cabinetry with a huge range, perfect for cooking up a feast. There is plenty of space for a large dining table making the perfect setting for family suppers and encourages lingering over a coffee or glass of wine, a sense of ease envelopes this space. A practical addition is a utility room conveniently just off the kitchen, and the cosy dual aspect snug offers another reception space, ideal as a teens den, or potentially a home office. An expansive ground floor bathroom with shower and bath completes the ground floor.

Exploring Upstairs

Two separate staircases allow access to the first floor with the principal suite encompassing a large bedroom with weathered beams that could tell a tale of times gone by, Bedroom 4/or a stylish dressing room and modern ensuite with walk in shower. This is a space with simple sophistication and provides a real sanctuary, away from it all. The other staircase leads to two large bedrooms, ideal for a home that can grow with you and offers a more independent space for teenagers and of course privacy for guests to stay.

KEY FEATURES

Everyone Welcome

The annexe at the bottom of the garden of the farmhouse is again open plan and contemporary yet still with a firm nod to the character held within the walls. With beautiful laminate flooring, latch doors, modern kitchen, bathroom and bedrooms, the underfloor heating throughout makes this is another surprisingly light and airy offering considering the age of this home. The annexe has its own private terrace and access for parking too, maintaining privacy for both the main house and annexe occupants. It is currently used as a holiday let and generates a great ancillary income. This space offers versatility and whilst currently used as a holiday home, with appropriate licenses could appeal to those seeking multi-generational living, or a home office/studio on site.

Step Outside

As soon as you spy the grounds here you are enveloped in a sense of space and tranquillity – the current owners cleared and landscaped the land, opening it out and adding beautifully kept lawns and estate fencing to give the feeling of country estate land. The driveway to the farmhouse leads straight to the front door, so convenient when unloading the groceries or the children and offers ample space for parking multiple vehicles, providing plenty of room when family and friends visit. The rear gardens are enclosed and mainly laid to lawn whilst the front grounds stretch away from the home with mature trees and shrubs offering a haven for wildlife and opportunity for children to run free and roam – an idyllic spot. At point of sale the front grounds will also be fully fenced to provide a clear boundary and guarantee privacy.
