PROPERTY SUMMARY

A beautifully appointed ground floor two-bedroom period flat on the ever-popular Russell Road, offering a refined blend of timeless character, elegant proportions, and considered modern living in a highly desirable North London setting.

Extending to approximately 632 sq. ft., the property is well balanced throughout, with high ceilings and excellent natural light enhancing the sense of space. The reception room is particularly impressive, centred around a period fireplace that provides a striking focal point, adding warmth and character.

There are two well-proportioned bedrooms, complemented by a generous eat-in kitchen offering a practical yet sociable setting for everyday living and entertaining.

A rare and highly sought-after feature is the private rear garden, offering a peaceful outdoor sanctuary with delightful views towards the New River at the bottom, creating a strong sense of openness and tranquillity.

The property retains exquisite period detailing, seamlessly enhanced by tasteful contemporary finishes, resulting in a home that feels both characterful and sophisticated.

Positioned within the heart of N13, the location offers excellent transport connectivity. Palmers Green station provides direct National Rail services into Moorgate, offering a swift commute into the City of London. Bowes Park station further enhances accessibility with additional direct services into Moorgate.

For Underground travel, Bounds Green and Wood Green stations on the Piccadilly Line are within easy reach, offering direct routes into Central London including King's Cross, Covent Garden, and Leicester Square.

The area is also well served by an extensive network of local bus routes, providing connections to Wood Green.

In summary, a rare opportunity to acquire an elegant ground floor period home with high ceilings, feature fireplace, private garden with New River views, and excellent transport links, offered chain free a truly distinguished N13 residence.
