THE DWELLING

A detached building formerly used as a place of worship, set in 0.14 acre and now offering a variety of uses subject to planning.

CURRENT ACCOMMODATION

The current accommodation comprises an enclosed entrance vestibule, main hall/room, second smaller room, kitchen, rear lobby and two cloakrooms/wc's.

LOCATION

East Coker lies to the north of the Somerset/Dorset border, amidst the beautiful countryside for which this area is noted. The centre of the village is a Conservation Area in which strict planning controls have helped to preserve its rural character and where the main street is lined with period thatched cottages and houses. Indeed, the character of the village is further enhanced by its association with T. S. Eliot, who immortalised the village in one of his best-loved poems and whose ashes lie in the village church. The village has a primary school, shop/post office and well-regarded public house, The Helyar Arms.

OUTSIDE

The property is approached via Burton Lane, a no-through, quiet lane. To the front is a small area of ground and a pathway leading to the front entrance. Side access adjacent to the building leads to the rear.

Vehicle access is via a lane to the side, which leads to the rear of the property where the main grounds are found. There is a current Deed of Easement through these grounds allowing an access way 4 metres wide, coloured blue on the plan details within this sales brochure, for the neighbouring property known as Sladescroft.

SERVICES

Mains water, electricity and drainage are connected.
