Stockton Heath Walton Road

An increasingly challenging opportunity to acquire a substantial period property full of charm and character situated within walking distance of the village.

Over the years, this Edwardian residence has been the subject of both structural and cosmetic improvements including but not limited to, a side extension constructed many years ago as a consulting room because one of the previous owners was a practising dentist, however, today it has been repurposed as an ideal study and kitchenette by our client. A further extension to the rear is a striking addition measuring over 7 metres resulting in an open-plan recreation and family area which opens out onto the garden. 'Karndeian' flooring and recently fitted carpets to the ground floor. The main bedroom has been redesigned to introduce an en-suite, a feature most purchasers at this price band demand rather than seeing it as a luxury especially as these period homes were designed with one bathroom, replacement family bathroom boasting a four piece suite and a further en-suite to the second floor bedroom. Concluding, there has been extensive landscaping to front, side and rear elevations.

Upon entrance, you are received by an original style door leading into the porch which features 'Quarry' tiled flooring and a stained glass leaded door leading into the entrance hall which exudes charm and characterful features. In addition, there is the lounge boasting a solid fuel burning stove and sash bay window, dining room with a recessed chimney breast and sash window, study, kitchenette/utility, open plan dining kitchen complete with integrated appliances and breakfast bar, family room and boot room. The first floor includes three double bedrooms, en-suite to the master and a family bathroom whilst to the second floor, there is a further bedroom with en-suite. Landscaped gardens and off road parking.
