Once the village Women's Institute hall and now a charming and beautifully renovated one-bedroom home, Jerusalem Cottage offers character, comfort and planning potential in equal measure. Dating back to the 1860s and tucked into the heart of the village between Louth and the coast, this unique single-storey residence features a stunning vaulted living space, open-plan kitchen, private garden and full planning permission for a rear and first-floor extension to create a larger home with two extra bedrooms and a garden room. Finished with care and full of period charm, it's a rare opportunity for lifestyle buyers or those seeking a peaceful retreat with space to grow.

Step through the cottage-style composite front door and into the main open-plan living area, where high vaulted ceilings, exposed beams and original architectural features create a sense of heritage and space. The light American oak engineered flooring runs underfoot, warmed by a full wet-system underfloor heating installation. A working Victorian cast-iron fireplace with tiled inset and quarry-tiled hearth provides a traditional focal point, while uPVC sash windows and a Velux rooflight bring in natural light throughout the day.

To one end of the open-plan space is the kitchen area, fitted with white Shaker-style base units, wood-effect worktops and matching upstands, a stainless steel sink and drainer, Hotpoint electric oven and induction hob with extractor above. French doors open onto the rear garden, extending the living space and allowing in views of the flowers and greenery beyond.

A curved dividing wall adds soft separation between the living area and the bedroom, accessed through a small library hallway with built-in bookshelves. The double bedroom includes fitted wardrobes, one of which houses the pressurised hot water cylinder and electric underfloor heating controls. A column radiator with electric element, sash window, stained glass feature, carpeted flooring and inset ceiling spotlights complete this tranquil space.

To the rear of the kitchen is a well-fitted utility room, with a further range of wood-effect base and wall units, laminated worktops, a 1.5-bowl stainless steel sink, and tiled flooring. There's space for a washing machine, dishwasher and freezer, with access to the garden via a part-glazed uPVC door. A further timber door leads into the shower room, featuring a walk-in cubicle with rainfall head and thermostatic mixer, WC, wash basin, heated towel rail, and part-tiled walls in calming neutral tones. A rear window, extractor and spotlights complete the specification.

The rear garden is private and sunny, well stocked with flowering plants and laid out with a raised decking area, steps down to the lawn, and timber fencing to the boundaries. There's a log store, garden shed, coal bunker and outside lighting, with right of way access provided down the side of the cottage.

Planning permission was granted in June 2023 for a rear and first-floor extension to provide two additional bedrooms, a bathroom and a garden room—perfect for those looking to create a larger, long-term home. Full documentation is available under application N/161/00876/23 on the East Lindsey District Council planning portal.
