Agent Note

The property was originally served by a gas-fired central heating system. The boiler and central heating system have been decommissioned and are not currently in use. As an interim measure, electric radiators have been installed in the lounge and dining room, and the hot water is provided via an immersion heater with timer controls. The gas meter has been removed, and any purchaser wishing to reinstate a gas supply and central heating system should make their own enquiries regarding the associated works and costs.
