Property Introduction

Being one of just nine properties constructed approximately three years ago, the property occupies a good size plot and has been built with stand-out features which include a part slate-hung exterior along with exposed granite lintels and quoins. Internally, the quality of finish continues with high-end flooring, oak veneer doors along with a delightful fitted kitchen/diner with a variety of integrated appliances and a recently added garden room which overlooks the garden. The generous entrance accesses the additional ground floor accommodation which comprises of a cloakroom, lounge and utility room, while to the first floor is a family bathroom, four bedrooms with the principal having an en-suite.

Externally, a resin driveway offers off-road parking with the resin pathway leading to the front door with courtesy light. The main garden is laid mainly to lawn with central sycamore tree, but also having a variety of mature shrubs and flowers along with a vegetable plot with access to a raised, decked sitting area. To the rear is a useful storage shed, while to the side, this is currently utilised by the vendors as a space for recycling.

Location

Due to the position of the development, the shops and amenities of the town are just moments away with an additional pedestrian gated access located at the end of the cul-de-sac with a key code for security.

Helston is a traditional market town steeped in history and tradition and is also the most southerly town in England. Other amenities include both primary and secondary schooling, leisure centre and cinema – all of which contribute in creating a strong, local community. Helston also serves as the gateway to the spectacular Lizard Peninsula which is a popular destination for locals and visitors to explore its traditional fishing villages, such as Cadgwith, Coverack, Mullion and the breathtaking Kynance Cove.

Just a short driving distance away is the Penrose Estate – again, being popular for walkers and this leads to a fresh water lake found at Loe Bar.
