The property

Built in 2004 with attractive stone elevations beneath a traditional thatched roof, Orchard House has all the character and visual appeal of a classic period cottage, yet benefits from the practicality and efficiency of a modern home. The property has been thoughtfully enhanced and upgraded by the current owner, resulting in beautifully presented accommodation that feels light, spacious and welcoming throughout. Arranged over two floors, the house combines timeless country charm with contemporary comfort.

At the heart of the home is a generous eat-in kitchen, perfectly designed for both everyday family living and entertaining. This inviting space offers ample room for dining and gathering, creating a natural focal point for the household. Adjoining the kitchen is a highly practical utility room, providing additional storage and laundry space while keeping the main living areas uncluttered.

The ground floor also features two further reception rooms, and a bedroom offering excellent flexibility for modern lifestyles. These include an elegant drawing room with a charming wood-burning stove, ideal for cosy evenings, as well as additional spaces that can serve as a sitting room, study, or family room depending on requirements. All of these rooms lead from a central entrance hallway, which immediately impresses with its full-height galleried landing above, creating a wonderful sense of light, space and architectural interest.

Upstairs, the galleried landing leads to four well-proportioned bedrooms and two stylish bathrooms. Each room has been decorated in a tasteful modern country style, blending soft tones and natural textures to create a calm and relaxing environment. The overall effect is a home that feels both warm and inviting, while retaining a refined and elegant character throughout.

Orchard House is therefore a rare combination: a property that captures the romance and charm of a traditional thatched home, yet offers the comfort, layout and ease of living expected from a much newer build.

Outside

Set within approximately one acre of enchanting woodland gardens, the grounds wrap around the house to create a wonderfully private and secluded setting beneath a canopy of mature trees. In spring, a carpet of bulbs brings early colour, followed by an abundance of seasonal planting and dappled shade throughout the warmer months.

Within the grounds, a unique woodland spa area has been thoughtfully created, offering a peaceful retreat immersed in nature. There is a separate lodge sleeping four, complete with a freestanding bath and kitchenette, making it ideal for visitors or additional letting potential. Complementing this tranquil space are outdoor wellness features including a sauna, ice bath and outdoor shower, creating a truly special setting for relaxation and retreat within the gardens.

Situation

The picturesque village of Chaldon Herring, also known as East Chaldon, is nestled in a tranquil rural setting just a short distance inland from the renowned Jurassic Coast, a designated World Heritage Site celebrated for its dramatic cliffs, sweeping bays and rich geological history. This idyllic location offers the perfect balance between peaceful countryside living and easy access to some of Dorset's most beautiful coastline and walking routes. In fact you can walk to the coast in about 1.5 miles along the track from the house. At the heart of the village is the much-loved Sailors Return public house, a traditional and welcoming establishment that serves as a social hub for the local community. Surrounded by unspoilt countryside and charming period cottages, Chaldon Herring retains a wonderfully authentic Dorset village atmosphere.

Approximately one mile away lies the larger and well-served village of Winfrith Newburgh, which provides a range of everyday amenities including a village shop, post office, public house and a well-regarded primary school. The village also benefits from a strong sense of community and access to a number of local footpaths and bridleways, ideal for those who enjoy walking, cycling and exploring the surrounding countryside.

The village is conveniently positioned roughly equidistant between the historic county town of Dorchester and the attractive Saxon market town of Wareham. Both towns offer an excellent selection of facilities including a wide variety of shops, supermarkets, restaurants, cafés and traditional pubs, as well as schools, leisure facilities and cinemas. Importantly, each town also benefits from mainline railway stations providing regular services to London Waterloo, making the area suitable for those who may need to commute or travel to the capital.

Together, these nearby villages and towns ensure that Chaldon Herring enjoys the best of both worlds — a peaceful rural setting close to the spectacular Jurassic Coast, yet within easy reach of excellent local amenities and transport connections.
