Four bedrooms, three floors and a kitchen/diner that might just steal the show.

If you've been waiting for a family home with serious space, plenty of style and the station within strolling distance, Scratton Road has entered the chat.

Beautifully presented and impressively extended, this four bedroom detached home sits just 0.3 miles from Stanford-le-Hope Station and a stone's throw from the town centre.

Step through the door and the wood-panelled entrance hallway makes a suitably stylish first impression. There's a generous lounge with built-in storage, but it's the stunning extended kitchen/diner where this home really earns its bragging rights. Big breakfasts, Sunday roasts, dinner parties, homework at the table – there's room for the lot.

A ground floor WC keeps things practical, while upstairs you'll find three good-sized bedrooms and a modern shower room.

Still need more space? Keep going.

The top floor delivers an additional bedroom and beautifully appointed bathroom, creating a fantastic private retreat for guests, teenagers or anyone clever enough to claim the top floor first.

Outside, there's a lovely-sized rear garden and workshop, while the front offers driveway parking, gated side parking and a garage. Because apparently this house wasn't finished ticking boxes.

Four bedrooms. Three floors. Extended kitchen/diner. Garage. Workshop. Plenty of parking. Station 0.3 miles away.

Family homes with this much to shout about don't need much of a sales pitch.

They just need viewing.
