Situation

A wonderful detached barn style property set in approximately 9 acres of well cared for grounds including stabling for six horses, a detached barn with annexe above and a substantial detached stone building with veranda overlooking the pond

The property is situated within the South downs National Park in the quaint hamlet of Woodmancote, which lies equidistant from the larger villages of Henfield and Hurstpierpoint. Both villages boast bustling High Streets and offer an eclectic range of local shops and amenities. The commuter village of Hassocks, with its mainline train station provides regular rail services to London. There are also a range of revered state and private schools locally.

Situated next to the original siting of the Coach House, this sympathetically built modern home showcases all the charm and character of the original building with a wealth of french oak and the inclusion of a raft of modern comforts. The sizable triple aspect sitting room with mezzanine galleried area is wonderfully light with a vaulted ceiling and french doors leading out onto the stone terrace making for a great entertaining space. The handmade kitchen compliments the style of the building with a range of handmade oak units and worksurfaces. Five bedrooms serviced by three bathrooms are arranged over the ground and lower ground floor. Set within its gardens and grounds are a range of outbuildings. A large veranda overlooks the pond where there is a detached 'Pond House' comprising two large rooms with one currently used as a workshop and store. A detached barn with a two bay carport and garage with studio accommodation above comprising a fully fitted kitchenette, bathroom and double bedroom provides the perfect space for guest accommodation. A gated stable block with stabling for six horses and a tack room compliments the large grounds of approximately 9 acres with an exciting prospect for any discerning equestrians.
