SITUATION

Nestled just 1.5 miles north of Crediton, the picturesque village of Sandford is a charming civil parish steeped in history, featuring a 12th-century church and an abundance of character. With its narrow, winding streets lined by beautiful thatched cottages, many adorned with enchanting, Beatrix Potter-style perennial gardens, Sandford exudes a timeless, old-world appeal.

At the heart of the village, you'll find the iconic 16th-century Post House, now home to The Lamb Inn, an award-winning pub and restaurant renowned for its rustic charm and vibrant atmosphere. Featured in The Daily Mail's list of "20 Best British Country Pubs" (2015), it's a favourite gathering spot for locals and visitors alike. Directly across from the Inn is the community-run shop and post office, further highlighting the strong village spirit that defines Sandford.

The sense of community is reflected in the village's range of local sports clubs, including cricket, tennis, football, and rugby. Sandford is also home to a highly sought-after primary school, noted for its striking Greek-style architecture, and older students benefit from proximity to the outstanding Q.E.C.C. in Crediton, which boasts an "Outstanding" rated Sixth Form.

Sandford is beautifully connected to Crediton via a footpath that winds through the scenic Millennium Green, past a wildflower meadow, herb garden, and crystal-clear stream, offering a peaceful and picturesque route to the town.
