Guide Price £190,000

Welcome to this fabulous top floor one bedroom luxury apartment set within this beautiful Grade II listed late Regency/early Victorian semi-detached Villa, set within the heart of vibrant Cheltenham.

Ideal as a first buy or a lucrative rental investment, this fine property offers the following accommodation:

Facing the front elevation with two traditional sash cord windows is the well-appointed living room. To the rear there is a generous double bedroom (14'7" x 13'8"). The well fitted kitchen also overlooks the frontage with the recently re-fitted shower room being central to the apartment. The shower room has a high-quality traditional design and suits the property perfectly.

The apartment doesn't come with off road parking, hence the very attractive asking price, however the property sits within the parking zone 15 covering a huge range of central Cheltenham Street options for parking.

The owner of the property benefits from a share of the freehold which means there will be no ground rent, and the occupiers have a constructive say in the running and administration of the building. Owners can get as involved as much or as little as they want. Share of freehold is a much-preferred ownership option than traditional leasehold.

This important piece of Cheltenham's heritage is, as previously mentioned Grade II listed with particular mention of the impressive external wrought iron work. The following is from the heritage site:

HISTORICAL NOTE: No.26 was the early boyhood home of Adam Lindsay Gordon (1833-70), Poet of Australia; also, from 1857-60 the home of George and Josephine Butler, Mrs Butler was an ardent campaigner for social justice. (Sampson A and Blake S: A Cheltenham Companion: Cheltenham: 1993-: 17,51).
