

Tucked away on the High Street of Buriton, this well-presented three-bedroom bungalow offers a wonderful opportunity to enjoy village life within the South Downs National Park.

Buriton is a popular and well-regarded village centred around a duck pond and Norman church, with a genuine sense of community and a hotel, pub and restaurant close at hand. Queen Elizabeth Country Park is virtually on the doorstep - perfect for walking, cycling and enjoying the surrounding countryside - and the market town of Petersfield is just a short drive away, offering a full range of shops, schools and a mainline rail connection to London Waterloo.

The bungalow makes a pleasing first impression, with a generous front garden planted with established trees and a stone path leading to the front door. Inside, a large entrance hallway with coat hanging area leads through to the main living spaces, with attractive pine flooring running throughout. The sitting room is well-proportioned with large windows and opens naturally into the dining area, which connects to the rear garden via French doors.

The kitchen breakfast room is in excellent order, fitted with a stylish shaker-style kitchen and a door opening onto the rear garden.

Three bedrooms are served by a well-appointed shower room to the master bedroom and a family bathroom for the remaining two rooms.

To the rear, the well-planted south-west facing garden enjoys afternoon and evening sun with open views across to Queen Elizabeth Country Park. Gated driveway parking and a garage provide both security and useful additional storage.

The property further benefits from solar panels, mains gas central heating, all mains services and double glazing throughout.

Council tax band E - £2728 per annum
