LOCATION

Once the ancient capital of Scotland and now a proudly crowned city, Dunfermline was officially granted city status in May 2022 as part of the Queen's Platinum Jubilee celebrations. Today, it is a city where history runs deep, yet ambition runs deeper.

Rich in heritage and alive with modern energy, Dunfermline has played a defining role in Scotland's story for more than a thousand years. It is the birthplace of Andrew Carnegie, while the magnificent Dunfermline Abbey is the final resting place of King Robert the Bruce. From its medieval streets to Carnegie's Birthplace Museum, Abbot House and the Carnegie Library and Museums, the city's heritage remains at the heart of everyday life.

Yet Dunfermline is firmly forward-looking. Its historic character is complemented by a vibrant mix of shops, restaurants, leisure facilities and highly regarded schools, creating an attractive place to live, work and invest.

Its location is equally impressive. Just five miles from the iconic Forth Bridges, Dunfermline offers excellent access to Edinburgh via the M90, with convenient links to Perth, Dundee, Stirling, Glasgow and beyond. Two railway stations provide regular services to the capital and intercity connections, while extensive bus routes connect the wider region.

Dunfermline is a city that proudly celebrates its past while embracing its future - a distinctive and thriving place at the heart of Scotland.
