Denise White Estate Agent Comments

Nestled within the highly sought-after rural surroundings of Upper Hulme, on the outskirts of Leek, Mill Cottage is a truly charming and characterful two-bedroom stone-built cottage, offering a wonderful blend of traditional features, cosy living spaces and modern-day practicality. Full of individuality and charm, this delightful home has been exceptionally well maintained by the current owners and provides an ideal opportunity for those looking for a property with genuine character in a beautiful Staffordshire setting.

Upon entering the cottage, you are welcomed into a versatile and generously proportioned lounge, which immediately sets the tone for the rest of the property. This wonderfully cosy reception room is filled with natural light and boasts a wealth of character features, including exposed ceiling beams, attractive sash windows and a feature log-burning stove, creating a particularly warm and inviting atmosphere. The proportions of the room allow for comfortable seating and flexible furniture arrangements, while the traditional features give the space a real sense of charm and personality. Stair access rises from here to the first floor, with further stairs leading down towards the kitchen and dining area.

The kitchen/diner is positioned to the lower level and provides a practical yet characterful heart to the home. The kitchen is fully fitted with a range of units and work surfaces, while the adjoining dining area provides plenty of space for a dining table and chairs. Once again, exposed beams add to the property's traditional character, whilst the overall finish has been maintained to an excellent standard by the current owners. The dining area also benefits from direct access out to the rear courtyard, making it particularly convenient during the warmer months and allowing the outside space to become a natural extension of the living accommodation.

To the first floor, the property provides two well-presented bedrooms and a family bathroom. Bedroom One is a particularly well-proportioned and comfortable double bedroom, offering a pleasant and peaceful space with ample room for bedroom furniture. Bedroom Two is currently better suited to use as a single bedroom, home office or dressing room, although it could accommodate a double bed depending on the preferred layout. The room also benefits from fitted wardrobes, providing useful built-in storage.

Completing the accommodation is the family bathroom, which is well presented and provides the necessary facilities for modern family living.

Externally, Mill Cottage enjoys a delightful courtyard-style garden, offering a wonderfully quaint and private outdoor setting. The space has a charming, almost waterside feel, with a small brook running alongside the bottom of the garden, creating a particularly attractive outlook and adding to the property's idyllic character. The courtyard provides an excellent spot for outdoor seating, enjoying a morning coffee or simply taking in the peaceful surroundings.

Overall, Mill Cottage is a beautifully presented and highly individual stone-built cottage, perfectly suited to buyers looking for something a little different from the ordinary. The property offers a fantastic combination of traditional Staffordshire character and comfortable modern living. Its location on the outskirts of Leek also provides an appealing balance between peaceful rural surroundings and convenient access to the amenities of Leek and the wider Staffordshire Moorlands.

A viewing is highly recommended to fully appreciate the character, presentation, proportions and unique setting this delightful cottage has to offer.
