THE VISION

Our vision for Eastgate House is to honour the distinguished heritage of this period residence while crafting a collection of 8 residences that speak to today's most discerning lifestyles. Every detail of the conversion has been guided by a commitment to preserve the building's original grandeur – from its imposing architecture and mature setting to the sense of character that has defined its history – while introducing the elegance, comfort, and sophistication expected of modern living. The result is a rare opportunity: a home of timeless distinction, perfectly attuned to contemporary expectations.

THE LEGACY

For generations, Eastgate House has remained a quietly hidden presence along Wragby Road — an understated gem set behind mature walls and trees, its period architecture largely concealed from view. Tucked away from the bustle of the street, its character and heritage echo the rich history of Lincoln's historic heart, known more intimately to those who have passed through its gates than to the wider public.

Once serving as a residence connected to the city's renowned schools, the building has long played a subtle yet meaningful role in the life of the community. Today, its legacy is being carefully revealed through a sensitive transformation — preserving the elegance and stature of the original residence while reimagining it as apartments for modern living.

THE RESIDENCES

Within the historic walls of Eastgate House, six individually crafted apartments have been thoughtfully created, each celebrating the building's period character while seamlessly introducing refined modern living. The conversion has been meticulously delivered to meet current building regulations, offering buyers complete confidence and peace of mind.

Together, they form a truly distinctive collection — blending heritage charm with contemporary sophistication, and giving residents the opportunity to choose between the timeless character of a conversion and the clean, modern appeal of a new build.
