OUTSIDE

The property stands in a very secluded setting at the head of its own private drive. The driveway extends along between the two paddocks with many maturing native deciduous trees and hedging to one side. It extends through to a wide gravelled area to the left hand side of the house which also provides access to the L-shaped range of stone buildings to include former shippon and coach house.

GARDENS

There is a pretty informal lawned garden to front which is quite sheltered with mature conifer hedging, laurel and specimen shrubs to include rhododendron with an archway leading through to a further informal lawned area beyond which adjoins the main paddock. The garden then extends around to a former kitchen garden with two timber framed sheds.

Thereafter, the garden extends around to the rear of the house where there is a summerhouse, concrete pathway with well stocked and established herbaceous and heather borders. Thereafter is a timber framed open sided covered area which adjoins the rear elevation of the house together with a further lawned area, modern aluminium framed greenhouse and oil storage tank located behind the farm buildings.
