Accommodation:

A warm and inviting reception hall sets the tone for the rest of the interior; stairs rise to the first floor and there is access to the WC. The west wing of the house features a stylish and spacious sitting room, centred around a wood-burning stove. This room is enhanced by a feature bay window and enjoys French doors opening onto the garden.

To the other side of the entrance vestibule is a further versatile reception room, also with a wood-burning stove and enjoying charming views towards All Saints Church. This leads through to the characterful country kitchen, showcasing exposed beams and a range of shaker-style base and wall-mounted cabinetry. Completing the ground floor accommodation is a practical utility room, which benefits from its own external access, ideal for country living.

To the first floor, the main bedroom suite includes a well-appointed shower room and bespoke built-in storage, whilst enjoying views over the tranquil gardens. Four further bedrooms are serviced by a family bathroom, as well as a separate shower room.

Gardens and land:

The property is approached via low-slung timber gates which open onto a block-paved driveway providing generous off-road parking for multiple vehicles. Positioned adjacent to the house is a detached, oversized double garage range, which incorporates a personnel door to the rear leading to a utility area and WC, with stairs rising to a spacious room above. This highly versatile space offers excellent potential for a variety of uses including a home office, studio, gym or hobby room.

The grounds are a particular feature of the property and provide a true haven for wildlife, offering year-round interest and enjoyment. Extending to approximately 0.91 acres, the gardens have been beautifully and thoughtfully landscaped, inspired by the naturalistic planting style of Beth Chatto. Designed with an ecological approach, the grounds incorporate a variety of carefully considered areas that blend seamlessly with the surrounding countryside and create spaces that can be enjoyed by every generation.

Within the gardens are a number of attractive additions, including a useful timber storage shed and a charming shepherd's hut, currently utilised as a studio, providing a delightful retreat within the grounds. There is also a brick-built workshop, offering further practical space.

Location:

Ratcliffe Culey is an attractive rural village in west Leicestershire, surrounded by open countryside. The village retains a peaceful, rural character while benefiting from a strong sense of community, with amenities including a village post office and a village pub.

The historic market town of Market Bosworth lies a short drive away, offering a range of independent shops, cafés and services, while Atherstone provides additional supermarkets, leisure facilities and everyday amenities.

The village is particularly well placed for families seeking both state and independent schooling. Highly regarded independent options nearby include Twycross House School and The Dixie Grammar School, both within easy reach. For secondary education in the state sector, the village lies within the catchment for the well-regarded Market Bosworth School.

For commuters, the nearby A5 provides direct access to Nuneaton, Coventry and Birmingham, while the motorway network, including the M42, M69 and M1, is easily accessible. Mainline rail services are available from Nuneaton, offering direct links to London and other major centres.

Surrounded by attractive countryside yet conveniently located for excellent schooling, amenities and transport links, Ratcliffe Culey offers a desirable combination of village living and accessibility.
