Buying below market value? We may be able to lend up to 90% of the purchase price, provided the total loan, including fees and any interest added, does not exceed 75% of the market value as assessed by a RICS surveyor. The guide price is not used for this.

For example, on a property valued at £100,000 and bought for £80,000, we could lend up to £72,000, which is 90% of the price and within 75% of the value (£75,000). This is the gross loan; the amount you receive will be lower once fees and any retained interest are deducted.
