Kincraig Street

Situated in the heart of Roath, one of Cardiff's most enduringly popular residential districts, this beautifully presented 4-bedroom home unfolds across three storeys, offering generous proportions and an easy flow between living spaces. Original timber floors, fireplaces and coved ceilings sit comfortably alongside practical modern arrangements, creating a house that feels both established and adaptable.

The twin reception rooms provide elegant settings for entertaining, with a bay fronted living room and a dining room that opens directly to the garden. The kitchen and adjoining utility offer practical workspace, while the rare advantage of a ground floor shower room enhances flexibility for guests or family life. Across the upper floors are four well balanced bedrooms, including a principal suite with its own shower room, and a further family bathroom. The fourth bedroom is found on the top floor, with exposed brickwork and skylights.

Roath remains one of Cardiff's most sought after postcodes for its blend of architecture, green space and independent culture. Roath Park and its lake are within walking distance, as are the cafés, restaurants and delis of Wellfield Road and Albany Road. The area is well regarded for its schools including Cardiff High School and several respected primary schools. Cardiff city centre is easily reached on foot or by bicycle, with excellent public transport links and convenient access to the A48 and M4 for commuting further afield.

This is a home that combines scale, character and location in equal measure, positioned within a vibrant yet established Cardiff neighbourhood.
