Front of the home

Built in the 1800s and extended in 1868, this stone-built home is situated at the top of a sweeping driveway. The grand entrance into the grounds is marked by a stone pillar where a beech hedge on the right and high retaining stone wall on the left border the tarmac drive. This rises upwards with iron gates leading on to a detached stone-built garage and store. The garage has an up-and-over door and separate pedestrian door on the right. It has a concrete floor, lighting, outdoor light, power points, water and pitched slate roof.

A path encircles the house, with space for several outdoor seating and dining areas so that you can sit in the sun or shade. The unrivalled views at the front look down over Matlock and across to Riber Castle, Starkholmes, High Tor, Matlock Bath and south to the hillside opposite. It is a peaceful and private location. The verdant front garden has a range of mature plants and trees.

At the rear is a large garden store, bin store and steps to the rear garden and tower - which in turn leads across to the upper garden and woodland.

The impressive stone-built gabled porch has decorative woodwork reminiscent of the 'arts and crafts movement' of the time, with the house name and extension date engraved in stone. Enter the home through the wooden front door with glazed panels and a brass handle and letterbox.

Entrance Hallway

This impressive entrance to the home has a high ceiling with decorative arch, coving, skirting boards, architraves and a solid staircase. The carpeted hallway includes two chandelier light fittings, panelled stair wainscoting, a radiator and white panelled doors with brass handles to the sitting room, dining room, breakfast kitchen and cellar.

Sitting Room

22'9" x 13'11" (6.95 x 4.25)

The grand dual aspect sitting room has tall south facing windows with fitted wooden shutters, offering splendid views at the front - and a north facing window at the rear. The focal point is the large ornate iron fireplace with slate hearth and marble surround. Like all fireplaces in the home, it has a natural 'chimney sheep' - a removable draught excluder made from highly durable, breathable Herdwick wool. There are four arched alcoves along this wall with built-in shelving. Opposite is a long, low-level radiator. The carpeted room also includes a ceiling light fitting and two wall lights.

Dining Room

13'11" x 11'7" (4.25 x 3.55)

Another room with almost full-height shuttered south facing windows, this also has great views and lots of natural light coming in. The fireplace in this room is of distinctive Hopton Wood stone - this is locally sourced and is renowned for the abundance of clearly-visible fossils in the stonework. The room is carpeted and has panelled walls, a radiator, chandelier light fitting and ceiling rose. An arched alcove on the right has shelving and there is a serving hatch in the wall to the kitchen.

Breakfast Kitchen

13'5" x 10'6" (4.1 x 3.22)

A door from the rear hallway leads to stone steps down to the very spacious two-room cellar. It is a versatile and usable space with quarry tiled floor, stone walls, five ceiling light fittings and several power points. The original stone shelving, fireplace and light well where the coal hole was are all charming features.

Stairs to first floor landing

Carpeted stairs with a polished mahogany bannister on the right lead up to the wonderful galleried landing. It is light and airy, with a high ceiling, light fitting and tall sash windows at each end. We love the set up at the front, with space for seating or a desk. It can be a reading area or home office...if you can resist spending all day gazing out at the views!

Stone steps lead up to a lawn and tiered beds and bushes. A path leads to the bottom of the tower, with elevated panoramic views over to your right.

The Tower, Upper Gardens and Woodland

This magnificent 'folly' is a renowned local landmark, visible for miles around. It was built to access and cultivate the upper garden and woodland beyond. The solid pine door opens to ground floor level, where there is a storage area and water supply. Metal steps and half-landings sourced from a local hotel take you to the top, providing incredible views in three directions from this vantage point.

A door leads to a decked bridge walkway high over a public footpath to the upper garden, where a range of abundant fruits and vegetables have been grown over a period of many years. The upper garden is plot DY233055 and the woodland is plot DY428158 as shown on the Land Registry image within the photographs.
