Offering generous accommodation throughout, extensive gardens, substantial outbuildings, and breathtaking scenery, this exceptional property represents a rare opportunity to acquire a versatile home in one of Scotland's most sought-after island locations.

Externally, the property continues to impress. The extensive grounds offer tremendous flexibility and potential, with several substantial outbuildings currently providing excellent storage and workshop space. These buildings could be adapted for a variety of uses or removed altogether to create even larger landscaped gardens if desired.

To the far end of the garden lies an area currently utilised for boat storage, which may offer future development potential, subject to the necessary consents. A further large timber outbuilding is also located within the grounds, adding to the property's versatility and appeal.

A charming garden path leads from the side gardens towards the upper boundary, where magnificent coastal vistas await. From this elevated position, residents can enjoy spectacular views of Islay's dramatic coastline and surrounding seascape, providing a constant reminder of the property's exceptional island setting.
