Fewer still offer the allure of the warm community spirit and rich history found in Findon's gentle retreat.

Renowned for its endless landscape and quintessential village charm, the appeal of this coveted setting begins on the doorstep. Protected by the slopes of Cissbury Hill and Church Hill, Monarch's View is accessed via Elm Rise and, from its position above the downland and valley, the surrounding countryside captivates and calms in equal measure.

Historic flint-fronted homes line the streets of Findon, while traditional pubs, café and local amenities –

With miles upon miles of open countryside to explore, Findon offers a way of life that's shaped by fresh air, breathtaking horizons and changing seasons.

Walk, cycle or ride through the pretty South Downs trails that surround the village, discover ancient woodland and hidden bridleways or take in the views from nearby Cissbury Ring – one of the largest hill forts in Britain.

Beyond all this, the Sussex coastline is a welcome escape and so close. From Brighton and Hove to the wide beaches of Littlehampton, you'll find everything from quiet seaside walks to sailing and watersports alongside the vibrant cafés that line the shore.

When the day's adventures are done, there's just the simple pleasure of returning home to the calm and comfort of Monarch's View.
