Ferry House, Midsummer Common

Cambridge,
CB4 1HA

A rare detached Victorian residence sitting directly on Midsummer Common with River Cam views to the front, within walking distance of central Cambridge. This historic detached residence was once occupied by the ferryman, whilst offering his services to cross the river. The property stands well within its own enclosed walled gardens with residential parking available close by.

LOCATION

Midsummer Common enjoys an enviable position close to the heart of Cambridge, combining immediate access to extensive riverside open space with the convenience of city living. The historic city centre, with its excellent range of shops, restaurants, cafés, cultural attractions and university facilities, is readily accessible on foot or by bicycle. The River Cam and Midsummer Common provide particularly attractive opportunities for walking, cycling and outdoor recreation. Local bus services are readily available, while Cambridge railway station provides regular connections to London and destinations throughout the region. Cambridge North station also offers further rail connections. The city's wider road network provides convenient access to the A14 and M11, making Midsummer Common an appealing location for both city and commuter living.
