Langham

A FRIENDLY VILLAGE, A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE COAST

Langham is a well-regarded North Norfolk village located just inland from the coast, close to Blakeney, Morston and the salt marshes that define this celebrated stretch of coastline. Surrounded by open countryside and within easy reach of coastal walks, nature reserves and beaches, the village offers an excellent base for enjoying the best of North Norfolk living.

At the heart of Langham is The Bluebell, a historic village pub dating back more than 400 years, well known locally for its welcoming atmosphere and regular community events. The village also hosts a popular street fayre, reflecting the strong community spirit that continues to shape village life.

Just a short drive away, Blakeney remains one of Norfolk's most iconic coastal destinations, known for its picturesque quay, sailing boats and stunning marshland scenery. Once an important medieval trading port, the village today is celebrated for its independent cafés, galleries, seafood restaurants and access to the National Trust nature reserve at Blakeney Point. Boat trips from nearby Morston Quay offer the chance to see the area's famous seal colonies and explore the coastline from the water.

The surrounding coast provides endless opportunities for walking, paddleboarding, birdwatching and exploring the expansive beaches and creeks of the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. Nearby villages including Cley-next-the-Sea, Wells-next-the-Sea and Holt add further appeal, offering everything from art galleries and boutique shopping to acclaimed pubs and restaurants.

Despite its peaceful coastal setting, Langham remains conveniently placed for access to Norwich, approximately 26 miles away, with rail links to London Liverpool Street and an international airport serving the region.
