Property Description

The approach is both practical and versatile, with a hardstanding driveway providing off-road parking for multiple vehicles, complemented by a low-maintenance stone-chipped front garden that can also be utilised for additional parking if required. A timber gate to the side of the property leads to a set of timber steps rising to the composite front door, continuing through to the rear garden.

Stepping inside, the entrance hall is welcoming and tastefully presented, finished with wood-effect laminate flooring. A useful under-stairs storage cupboard offers practicality, while the staircase, enhanced by a recently installed contemporary glass balustrade, adds a stylish focal point. Oak strip-panel internal doors are a consistent feature throughout, lending a modern and cohesive feel to the home.

The main lounge is a bright and inviting space, enhanced by a large bay window that floods the room with natural light. Corniced coving adds a touch of character, while a prominent chimney breast with an ornate stone-effect mantel and hearth houses an electric fire, creating a cosy centrepiece. An open doorway leads through to the kitchen, providing a natural flow between the spaces.

A second reception room offers excellent versatility, currently used as a dining room but equally suited as a home office or additional sitting room. With pleasant views towards Pen-Y-Groesffordd hillside, it provides a peaceful and adaptable space to suit a variety of needs.

The kitchen is both functional and stylish, fitted with a range of high-gloss wall and base units complemented by tiled splashbacks and laminated worktops. A large ceramic sink with drainer sits at the heart of the space, while there is ample room for a freestanding fridge freezer, gas cooker, and plumbing for a dishwasher. To the rear, a porch area provides access to the garden and a convenient ground floor WC.

Upstairs, the landing is brightened by a window and continues the sense of style with the glass balustrade. A loft hatch provides access to the roof space, while a handy storage cupboard houses the central heating boiler.

The primary bedroom is a comfortable double, featuring a fitted wardrobe flanking the chimney breast and enjoying pleasant views towards the nearby Pen-Y-Groesffordd hillside and distant Clwydian mountain range. The second bedroom is another generously proportioned double, offering space for additional furniture and featuring a unique hidden lift behind a stud wall, which historically provided access between floors (please note this has not been recently tested or serviced). The third bedroom is a well-sized single, overlooking the rear garden and offering space for wardrobes and bedside furniture, making it ideal as a child's room or home office.

The bathroom has been stylishly modernised with full-height PVC panelling to both walls and ceiling for ease of maintenance, complemented by tiled flooring. It features a contemporary open shower cubicle with a clear glass screen, rainfall showerhead, and separate handheld attachment, alongside a WC, a vanity unit with storage, an illuminated mirror, and a heated towel rail.

From the rear porch, the garden unfolds into a thoughtfully designed and highly usable outdoor space. A spacious timber decked terrace offers the perfect setting for al fresco dining and entertaining, with access to a store house complete with power. The former coal bunker has been cleverly repurposed into a practical utility area, providing plumbing and power for both washing and drying appliances. A further hardstanding area, currently used as an additional patio, beyond which a stone-chipped border frames a charming paved seating area beneath a pergola adorned with climbing plants. The garden continues with a neatly maintained lawn, ideal for children's play, and extends to a further tier featuring additional lawn space planted with pear and cherry trees. Fully enclosed by timber fencing and edged with established flowerbeds, the garden enjoys a sunny south-west facing aspect, ensuring sunlight throughout the day and into the evening.

The property is within walking distance of Llanddulas village center, offering a chip shop, post office, the popular Valentine Inn gastro pub, an Indian takeaway/restaurant, Llanddulas beach, and coastal paths. Commuting along the North Wales Coast is effortless with the A55 just moments away! This charming home with breathtaking views awaits your discovery. Schedule a viewing today and imagine the possibilities of making it your own!
