- Pre-planning approved for separate dwelling
- Detached garage
- Development opportunity
- Driveway
- Multiple outhouses

Occupying a prominent elevated position with views towards the mountains surrounding Llyn Padarn, this traditional early 19th-century Welsh cottage is believed to be one of the village's oldest properties. Positioned at the gateway to Yr Wyddfa, it enjoys an enviable setting for those seeking easy access to the surrounding countryside.

Requiring modernisation throughout, the accommodation comprises a living room, separate dining room, traditional kitchen, ground floor bathroom and two first-floor bedrooms, with one previously divided to create a third smaller bedroom, which could easily be reinstated to its original size.

Set within generous grounds, the property is connected to mains drainage and benefits from pre-planning approval for an environmentally friendly two-bedroom dwelling, offering excellent development potential. A spacious garage and a range of attached outbuildings, including a coal house, store, external WC and original pigsty, provide further scope for a variety of uses.

Offering character, history and exceptional potential in a stunning lakeside setting, this is a rare opportunity for buyers seeking a rewarding renovation or development project.
