About The Property

Looking for a substantial family home with generous gardens, flexible living space and the potential for even more? This beautifully presented detached dormer bungalow in Llandissilio combines four bedrooms, updated interiors, a useful basement, double garage and a 0.54 acre plot with possibilities, all within easy reach of Narberth and the wider West Wales countryside.

Tucked away at the end of a small cul-de-sac of just a handful of properties, this impressive detached dormer bungalow offers a surprising amount of space both inside and out. The setting feels tucked away while still being within walking distance of the village primary school and only around ten minutes from Narberth, making it a strong option for families wanting a bit more room without feeling isolated.

The property immediately gives a sense of practicality and flexibility. A decent driveway sits behind pillar entrances and provides parking for several vehicles, with access leading to the detached double garage and rear garden. The bungalow itself has a smart, well-kept appearance, with solar panels helping to keep running costs down and adding to the overall efficiency of the home.

Inside, the accommodation is spacious and well laid out, flowing naturally from room to room. The entrance hall includes useful under stairs storage and stairs rising to the first floor. The lounge is particularly generous in size, with a feature stone fireplace housing an electric fire and patio doors opening directly out onto the rear terrace and garden beyond. It is a room that feels ideal for both everyday living and entertaining, especially with the sliding doors opening into the kitchen diner.

Details Continued:

The kitchen has been recently updated and finished in a modern style with matching wall and base units, marble-effect worktops and integrated appliances including an eye-level oven, grill, dishwasher and electric hob. There is plenty of worktop space along with room for a family-sized dining table, making it a sociable heart of the home. The dining area still retains a warm and homely feel and connects nicely with the rest of the ground floor accommodation.

Leading off the kitchen is the utility room, also recently updated to match the kitchen, with built in fridge freezer, further storage and space for laundry appliances. A door opens straight out onto the rear patio, making it practical for day-to-day family life and garden access.

The ground floor bedroom layout gives the property flexibility for a range of buyers. Bedroom one sits just off the dining area and includes fitted wardrobes and a front facing window. A further inner hallway leads to two more bedrooms and the main bathroom. The bathroom has been modernised and includes both a shower and Jacuzzi bath alongside a vanity storage unit and WC.

Bedroom two is another double room with bi-fold doors and space for wardrobes, while bedroom three is particularly spacious and benefits from views over the rear garden together with its own en-suite shower room.

Upstairs, the property continues to impress with a substantial loft room currently arranged as a sitting room and home office space. This area could easily suit a hobbies room, games room, studio or additional family lounge depending on requirements. Velux windows and a front facing window bring in plenty of natural light, while doors lead through to the first floor bathroom and bedroom four.

Bedroom four is another comfortable double room with built in wardrobes and lovely elevated views over the garden and surrounding countryside. The first floor bathroom is fitted with a bath, WC and sink, making the upstairs arrangement ideal for guests or independent family living.

One of the standout practical features of the property is the detached double garage. Currently divided into a garage section and home gym, the building offers huge versatility. It could easily revert back to full garaging for vehicles or, subject to planning, could lend itself to a home office, workshop, studio or further lifestyle space. Power, lighting and an electric up and over door are already in place.

Beneath the property sits a particularly useful basement area. This space houses the oil-fired boiler and also provides extensive storage, including enough room for garden machinery and ride-on mower storage. Additional storage areas run beneath the house, adding yet more practicality.

Externally:

Outside is where this home really starts to separate itself from many others in the area. The rear patio has been thoughtfully arranged with glass balustrades and raised flower beds, creating a lovely seating area overlooking the garden and surrounding countryside. Currently home to a hot tub, it feels like a genuinely usable outdoor living space rather than simply a patio.

The grounds extend well beyond this terrace into a generous lawned garden with greenhouse, raised beds, mature trees and established hedging. There is ample room for vegetable growing, a polytunnel or simply enjoying the open outdoor space. The entire plot measures around 0.54 acres overall offering ample space for more growing space or other options subject to any permissions needed.

Homes offering this amount of indoor and outdoor space, together with updated accommodation, energy-saving features and possible future potential, are becoming increasingly difficult to find in this part of West Wales. The fact the property is also offered with no onward chain only adds further appeal.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AREA:

Llandissilio is a popular village location in Pembrokeshire, offering a primary school and local amenities while being only a short drive from the bustling market town of Narberth.

Narberth is well known for its colourful high street filled with independent shops, galleries, cafés, bars and restaurants, alongside everyday facilities including schools, healthcare and leisure amenities. The wider area also provides easy access to the stunning Pembrokeshire coastline, including the beaches at Tenby and Saundersfoot, making this part of West Wales particularly appealing.
