About The Property

Located in the well-regarded coastal village of Aberporth, this three-bedroom dormer bungalow offers a chance to live within walking distance of the beach while enjoying glimpses of the sea from both the lounge and parts of the garden. Sitting in a position that benefits from good access to local amenities and the wider Cardigan Bay coastline, the property is suited to those seeking a home that can be updated to reflect personal style and needs.

A lawned front garden sets the property back from the road, with a pathway leading through the garden to the main entrance. Once inside, the hallway acts as the central point of the ground floor, with doors to several rooms, two built-in storage cupboards, and an open wooden staircase rising to the first floor.

To the right of the hall is the dining room, offering a space for family meals or social occasions, and positioned conveniently near the kitchen. The kitchen itself includes a one-and-a-half sink with drainer, a range of base and wall units, and a freestanding electric oven with hob. While functional, it presents an opportunity for reconfiguration or modernisation to create a more contemporary layout if desired.

The lounge sits towards the rear of the property and makes the most of the coastal outlook. Double sliding doors open onto a small patio area, with sea views forming a backdrop beyond the garden. A feature fireplace adds a focal point to the room, giving it a homely feel. This space is well-proportioned and suited for both everyday use and entertaining.

Bedroom one, a single, is located on the ground floor and could serve a variety of purposes, from sleeping space to a study. The bathroom is fitted with a bath and sink, and there is a separate WC next to it.

The utility room, accessed from the hallway, has doors to both the front and back of the property, as well as plumbing for a washing machine. From here, the back door leads to steps descending to the rear garden.

Continued:

Upstairs, the landing has a Velux window that brings in natural light. Bedroom two is a double room with built-in wardrobes, while bedroom three is also a double and includes built-in wardrobes. A shower room is positioned between them, fitted with a shower cubicle, WC, and sink.

Outside, the rear garden is partly tiered and includes brick and block garden sheds, along with access to the garage. A rear parking area is also reached from here, providing additional practicality. From certain spots in the garden, there are further glimpses of the sea.

The property has clear potential for updating and redecoration to suit modern preferences. Its layout offers flexibility, and the presence of both ground-floor and first-floor bedrooms could suit a range of living arrangements.

Aberporth itself is one of West Wales' most popular coastal villages, with two sandy beaches, a small selection of shops, and community facilities. It lies along the Ceredigion Coast Path, giving easy access to miles of scenic walking. Dolphins are often spotted in Cardigan Bay, and the beaches are popular for swimming, kayaking, and paddleboarding.

Cardigan town, a short drive away, offers a wider range of shops, supermarkets, schools, and leisure options. From here, the wider West Wales area can be explored, with other coastal destinations such as Tresaith, Llangrannog, and New Quay within reach, alongside rural landscapes and riverside walks inland.

This dormer bungalow combines a sought-after location with the opportunity to modernise. With parking to the rear and a garage, and outdoor storage, it has a practical side to match its coastal position. For those looking for a property in Cardigan Bay that can be shaped to suit individual tastes, it presents a worthwhile prospect.
