DESCRIPTION

Dating back to the 17th century and further extended since, Ruckley House is a beautifully appointed home set in around 2.7 acres. As you enter the grounds of the property, there is an attractive gravelled courtyard which extends along the side of the house, giving access to a range of barns and outbuildings. The main entrance to the house is through an elegant courtyard.

On the ground floor, there are four principal reception rooms with views over the gardens which offer excellent space for entertaining. The pick of them is an exceptional drawing room with beautiful fireplace and lots of natural light from the dual-aspect windows. There is a classic Cotswold country house finish that runs throughout the entrance hall, sitting room and dining room. The kitchen is equipped with an Aga and has a separate scullery, pantry and utility room. Other traditional rooms including a breakfast room, nursery and filing room offer flexible living space that can be tailored to suit the needs of modern life.

On the first floor are seven of the nine bedrooms and four bathrooms. The large and light master bedroom stands out with its dual-aspect windows, separate dressing room and ensuite bathroom. There are two further bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor as well as a large attic space.

Externally, the beautiful formal gardens run to the south of the house as well as a grassed slope with direct access down to the River Avon. As well as the various outbuildings and stables, there is also a delightful outdoor heated swimming pool and pool house, and a hard tennis court.
