

CLOVER GARTH TAYLOR LANE HOLMPTON

£175,000
FREEHOLD

Occupying a substantial plot of around 0.66 acres this extended traditional style detached bungalow offers nearly 950 square feet of internal space. It will require extensive refurbishment after a significant water escape. Given the size of the plot it may appeal to those who would be interested in extending it or replacing it (subject to necessary permissions). It is located in the conservation area of this delightful coastal village and those factors combined with the secluded and forest feel of the plot are likely to make it very appealing. Early viewing is essential.

This property offers the opportunity for a superb home on an appealing plot surrounded by nature and a short walk from the beach. The property will require substantial renovation and improvements due partly to a substantial water leak in the roof void, that is likely also to include work to replace some or all of the flooring.

The extension to the rear has significantly enhanced the space the original traditional bay fronted bungalow offers to add a spacious dining kitchen and extra double bedroom. It can now provide 2 or 3 double bedrooms depending on how the rooms are used.

We expect some buyers may seek to extend the property or even replace it, (subject to necessary permissions) and the sizeable plot of around 0.66 acres provides the space to do so.

The current internal accommodation consists of an Entrance Hall, Living Room with a bay window, Dining Kitchen, a Bathroom and 2 or 3 Double Bedrooms though some purchasers may wish to use on as a dining room.

Outside are spacious grounds that include a number of mature trees and a pond as well as a large timber shed. The property is part PVCu double glazed though the windows on the front aspect are thought to be the original timber ones and there is a wall mounted electric radiator in the living room.

The property and its plot will only be fully appreciated with a viewing but we have a 360 degree tour available that will provide an excellent insight.

Location
