Cheval Court

Originally built circa 1905, Cheval Court is a substantial and highly individual period residence, constructed by Mr Garle, the builder appointed to demolish London's historic Newgate Prison. Reclaimed materials from the 12th century prison were incorporated into the house, creating its distinctive Tudor manor house character, further enhanced by random stone and brickwork, antique beams, wood panelling and impressive fireplaces.

The generously proportioned accommodation includes an impressive entrance hall, bespoke farmhouse kitchen with Aga, breakfast room, boot/utility room, study, formal dining room, two substantial reception rooms and cloakroom. Four bedrooms are arranged over the first and second floors, including an impressive principal suite with sitting area or nursery, dressing room and en suite bathroom, together with a further en suite bedroom and two bedrooms served by a Jack and Jill bathroom. There is also potential for further extension, subject to planning.

Approached via a long gated driveway, the property enjoys exceptional privacy and extensive parking. Outbuildings include a four car garage with self contained one bedroom flat, large garage with cellar and oak framed covered parking.

Set within approximately five acres, the beautifully landscaped grounds include formal gardens, specimen trees, pond, terraces, lawns this is a rare country estate within the M25, just 17 miles south of London.
