

An aerial photograph of a residential street in Dorset, UK. The central focus is a large, modern, two-story house with a dark grey roof featuring several solar panels. The house has a large glass conservatory on the ground floor and a balcony. To the left of the main house is a smaller green structure. The street is lined with various other houses, including traditional brick and stone buildings. The surrounding area is lush with greenery and trees. The overall scene is a typical suburban residential area.

ACCOMMODATION

The bungalow is accessed via the terraced balcony which leads into an impressive kitchen breakfast room. The kitchen incorporates a range of wall and base units with a countertop, steel sink with Quooker tap, electric oven and gas hob with extractor hood, a useful built in larder and spaces for a free standing fridge/freezer and dishwasher. This is complemented by a utility room containing wall and base units, sink and further undercounter space for additional appliances with access out to the side of the property. A study/office can also be found on this side of the bungalow, ideal for those working from home. The generously sized sitting room has been extended by the current owners and the focal point is an eye catching open hearth inglenook fireplace with brick surround. The property also enjoys an inviting sun room fitted with Bifold doors out to the terrace, which is the perfect place to relax.

The three double bedrooms are situated to the rear, with the master bedroom benefitting from a built in wardrobe. This is coupled with a superb ensuite comprising a bath, large corner shower, bidet, basin and traditional high level w.c. The second bedroom is a good sized double with a modern ensuite shower room. The third bedroom is served by a tasteful shower room, consisting of a corner shower, basin and w.c.

OUTSIDE

On approach to the bungalow is a gravelled driveway with parking for several cars. A path leads to the bungalow entrance via a stylish terraced balcony with the added benefit of free wheel chair access to the side. The property enjoys a low maintenance wrap around garden, laid to lawn at the front and bounded by tall close board fencing offering privacy. There are two useful sheds for storage.
