LOCATION

Malmesbury is an ancient hilltop town situated on the southern edge of the Cotswolds. Traditionally a market town serving the rural area of North West Wiltshire, Malmesbury is reputed to be the oldest borough in England created by Charter in 880 AD by Alfred the Great. Alongside the spectacular 12th century Abbey, the town is brimming with character buildings and streets including the popular The Old Bell Hotel - the oldest hotel in England.

Today, the town centre has numerous independent shops, pubs and restaurants. There are also large supermarkets (Waitrose and Aldi) on the edge of town as well as a weekly Farmer's market at the Market Cross. The town also has an excellent choice of well-regarded primary and secondary schools as well as good recreational and leisure facilities.

The M4 motorway (J17) to the south provides fast road access to the major employment centres of Bristol and Swindon together with London and the West Country. Main line rail services are available from Chippenham and Kemble (Paddington in about 75 minutes).
