About The Property

Looking for a bungalow in a popular coastal village with manageable accommodation, a level layout and scope to modernise over time? This two-bedroom property in Aberporth offers a practical footprint, enclosed gardens and a handy location close to the Cardigan Bay coastline in West Wales.

Set within a residential area of Aberporth, this detached bungalow provides comfortable single-storey accommodation with plenty of potential for updating and personalising. The layout is straightforward and functional, making it well suited to those looking to downsize, retire near the coast, or purchase a property with scope to improve at a steady pace.

The property is entered through a covered porch which opens into the central hallway. From here, doors lead to all the main rooms, creating an easy-flowing layout throughout the home. The living room sits to the front of the bungalow and is a good-sized space with a fitted gas fire and broad window overlooking the front garden. There is plenty of room for both seating and dining furniture if desired, and the room has a bright feel thanks to the natural light coming in from the front aspect.

The kitchen sits to the rear and is fitted with a range of wall and base units with worktops over. There is space for appliances and useful worktop space, with a window overlooking the rear garden. While dated in style, it offers a practical setup as it stands and could easily be reconfigured or modernised to create a more contemporary kitchen space. A door from the kitchen leads directly into the sunroom.

The sunroom stretches along the rear of the bungalow and provides an additional sitting area, hobby space or dining spot looking out over the garden. With glazing along one side and a door leading outside, it connects the indoor and outdoor spaces nicely and adds another useful reception area to the property.

There are two bedrooms, both positioned off the hallway. The main bedroom is a comfortable double room with built-in storage and a front-facing window, while the second bedroom would work well as a guest room, dressing room or home office depending on requirements.

The shower room has been adapted with accessibility in mind and includes a walk-in electric shower, WC and wash basin. The bungalow's single-level layout and accessible shower room may appeal to buyers looking for easier day-to-day living.

Externally, the property benefits from gardens to both the front and rear. The front garden is mainly lawned with established shrubs and flower borders adding colour and privacy from the road. The rear garden is enclosed and paved for ease of maintenance, with raised borders and enough space for outdoor seating or container planting. Handrails are already in place, further adding to the practicality of the outside space.

The property appears well cared for over the years, although most buyers are likely to want to update décor and fittings to suit modern tastes. That said, the bungalow offers solid potential in a location where demand for coastal properties remains consistently strong.

Aberporth itself remains one of the most popular coastal villages along the Cardigan Bay coastline, known for its sandy beaches, village amenities and relaxed seaside feel. The village offers cafés, pubs, a convenience store and easy access to the Ceredigion Coast Path, while nearby Cardigan provides a wider range of shops, supermarkets and services. The wider West Wales coastline, with beaches including Tresaith, Penbryn and Llangrannog, is all within easy reach.
