“AN UNSPOILT EDWARDIAN HOUSE OF PRESENCE AND POISE, SET WITHIN ESTABLISHED GROUNDS AND OFFERING RARE SCOPE FOR INTELLIGENT RENEWAL.”

Eastholme, Kings Loke, Hemsby, NR29 4HN

Freehold | 164.8 sq m (1,774 sq ft)

The Tour:

Set quietly along Kings Loke, Eastholme is a substantial early 20th-century house whose measured proportions, calm symmetry and enduring materials immediately signal its Edwardian pedigree. Occupying a mature plot of approximately 0.235 acres, the house has a composed, assured presence. It is understood to have served as officers' lodgings during the war years, a detail that adds historical texture without overshadowing what is, first and foremost, a finely built family house.

The front door opens into a generous central hallway, a space designed to establish rhythm and balance rather than hurry the eye. From here, the plan unfolds with clarity. To the front of the house, the living room and dining room sit side by side, each well-proportioned and filled with natural light. High ceilings and original detailing lend these rooms a quietly formal character, equally suited to entertaining and everyday family life.

To the rear, the accommodation becomes more relaxed. The kitchen sits to one side and is serviceable in its current form, offering clear scope to be reimagined as a contemporary family space. Adjacent lies the drawing room, a calmer reception room that opens directly into the timber-framed conservatory beyond.

Fully glazed and overlooking the garden, the conservatory forms a gentle threshold between house and landscape, drawing the outside in and extending the living space through the seasons.

Upstairs, the first floor is arranged around a central landing and provides four generously proportioned bedrooms, all enjoying good natural light and the reassuring ceiling heights of the period. Original fireplaces remain in several rooms, providing an authentic architectural framework for restoration. A family bathroom serves the floor and, like much of the house, presents an opportunity for sensitive modernisation.

Throughout, Eastholme has been cared for rather than reworked. Its fabric remains largely intact, allowing an incoming owner to approach renovation with intelligence and restraint—enhancing comfort while preserving character.

Outside:

The house sits within approximately 0.235 acres (951 sq m) of established grounds. To the front, a gravel driveway provides off-street parking and leads to an externally accessed garage, which also houses the oil-fired boiler.

To the rear, the garden opens into a broad lawn framed by mature planting and boundary trees, creating a sense of privacy and scale. Close to the house, paved and decked terraces sit naturally alongside the conservatory and are well positioned for outdoor dining and summer evenings. The proportions of the plot feel generous yet resolved, lending themselves to thoughtful landscaping rather than any suggestion of overdevelopment.

The Area:

Hemsby is a coastal village on the east Norfolk seaboard, valued for its expansive sandy beaches, rolling dunes and strong sense of local community. Kings Loke is a particularly peaceful residential address, removed from through traffic yet within easy reach of village shops, primary schooling and everyday amenities.

The wider area offers convenient access to the Norfolk Broads, while road links connect efficiently to Great Yarmouth and Norwich for mainline rail services, shopping and cultural life. The coastline here remains one of Norfolk's most compelling—open, elemental and seasonally dramatic—lending the village a character that feels both restorative and enduring.
