This chain-free, three-bedroom Victorian terraced home strikes the perfect balance between period character and the practicalities of modern London living.

Step through the front door and a beautifully bright reception room greets you. The large bay window draws in an abundance of natural light, highlighting the well-proportioned dimensions that define this home. Moving through, the heart of the house is undoubtedly the kitchen-diner. It's a sociable, open space, further enhanced by a convenient utility room tucked away to the rear. This is a rare and welcome addition for any Victorian terrace.

The first floor continues to impress, with a large primary bedroom that features a bay window, built-in storage and a striking original fireplace adorned with intricate tiling. Two further bedrooms sit to the rear of the house, offering peaceful views across the private garden. A well-placed family bathroom serves the floor, completing the upper level.

Outside, the rear garden is a thoughtfully arranged mix of patio and lawn, offering the perfect backdrop for al fresco dining.

The location is as much of a draw as the house itself, sitting in a pocket of Leyton that perfectly captures the area's creative energy. The home is perfectly situated near Walthamstow Village, with Walthamstow Central Tube station providing the fastest direct connections to King's Cross, Liverpool Street, and Victoria. This central point provides an unrivalled variety of high street shops, the famous market and local eateries, alongside the best schools, playgroups and activities. For those seeking green space, the scenic Hollow Ponds and Jubilee Park are within easy reach, ensuring every essential for family and professional life is within effortless reach.
