A detached former blacksmith's cottage set on the edge of the village green in Ashreigney, surrounded by rolling Mid Devon countryside and well-known for its peaceful setting and access to walks straight from the door.

The property has evolved into a comfortable home while retaining the features that reflect its history. The sitting room is rich in original detail, with exposed beams, an inglenook fireplace, a wood-burning stove and the original bread oven still in place, creating a natural focal point.

The kitchen/breakfast area is designed for everyday use, with granite worktops, a gas Aga, integrated dishwasher and built-in bins. Doors open directly to the garden, making it easy to move between inside and out.

A separate dining room with solid oak flooring provides additional space for gatherings, and a useful pantry offers excellent storage for food and household essentials. A downstairs WC completes the ground floor.

Upstairs, the principal bedroom is particularly spacious, with fitted wardrobes and an en-suite shower room. There are three further bedrooms—two well-sized singles and an additional double—offering flexibility for family, guests or workspace. The main bathroom includes a bath with shower over. Despite its age, the cottage feels notably light and airy, with good natural light throughout.

Outside, there is parking to the front for up to four vehicles as well as a garage. The garden is thoughtfully arranged in a traditional cottage style, with established planting, a wide variety of flowers, shrubs and trees, and neatly kept borders. Raised beds provide space for vegetables or further planting. A pergola-covered patio creates a sheltered area for outdoor dining.

Practical additions include an outside laundry shed with storage behind and a separate wooden workshop with a workbench.

Positioned beside the green in this small rural village, the setting offers a strong sense of community alongside open countryside in every direction, while remaining within reach of the wider Mid Devon area – a truly stunning home.
