A remarkable piece of Norfolk heritage, Sutton Windmill is an exceptional and highly individual property combining the beautifully restored Grade II Listed Granary, the historic Sutton Windmill and a superb three-bedroom holiday cottage, all set within approximately 1.85 acres (stms) of private and picturesque grounds.

The Granary forms the main body of this extraordinary home, extending to around 7,000 sq. ft. and offering an impressive blend of original character and contemporary family living. From exposed brick walls and magnificent timber beams to vaulted ceilings, feature windows and an impressive inglenook fireplace, the building's history is celebrated throughout, while the scale and quality of the accommodation make it equally suited to modern life.

At its heart is an outstanding open-plan kitchen, dining and family room, stretching to over 85ft. and providing a wonderful space in which to cook, dine, relax and entertain. A series of generous reception rooms, including the sitting room, playroom and home gym, offer considerable versatility, while six bedrooms are arranged across the upper floors. The principal bedroom is particularly impressive, with its vaulted ceiling, exposed brickwork, dressing room and luxurious en-suite. Several further bedrooms also benefit from their own en-suite facilities.

An extraordinary sense of history and presence.

Attached to the Granary and sitting beautifully alongside the windmill is a charming three-bedroom holiday cottage, providing an exciting additional opportunity. Arranged over three floors, it has been finished to complement the main property and offers a kitchen/family room, shower room, cloakroom and three bedrooms. Whether retained as a successful holiday letting business, used for visiting family and friends or offered as independent accommodation, it adds an enviable degree of flexibility to the property.

The income potential is particularly compelling. According to figures obtained from a holiday letting company, the main Granary could generate approximately £118,000–£121,000 per annum when operated as a holiday let, while the three-bedroom cottage is estimated to generate a further £53,000–£57,000 per annum. This gives an indicative combined holiday-let income in the region of £171,000–£178,000 per annum, subject to occupancy. For an owner looking for an exceptional Norfolk residence that could also offer a substantial commercial income stream, this is a particularly rare proposition.

Outside, electric gated access leads to a generous driveway with parking for multiple vehicles, a double cart lodge and workshop. The gardens extend to lawns, a raised sandstone terrace, soft-play area and large timber shed, with two equine paddocks, mature trees and established hedging creating a wonderfully private setting. There is ample space for entertaining, family life and summer gatherings.

And then, of course, there is the windmill itself. Originally constructed in 1789, Sutton Windmill is the tallest surviving windmill of its kind in Britain, adding an extraordinary sense of history and presence to an already exceptional home.

Set within the charming village of Sutton, close to the Norfolk Broads, countryside and coastline, Sutton Windmill is a property of remarkable scale, history and versatility – a truly special Norfolk home with an equally impressive income opportunity.

A property of remarkable scale, history and versatility.
