Property Description

This well-positioned 1970s detached house sits along the leafy stretch of Broadfield Road in Knowle, a long-established neighbourhood that remains a favourite for families looking for space, convenience, and community.

Inside, the layout is designed with everyday living in mind. The ground floor begins with a small entrance area opening into a central hallway, leading to a bright sitting room that connects directly with the kitchen/dining space. Together, these rooms form a sociable heart of the home, with French doors opening straight onto the rear garden — ideal for mealtimes, hosting friends, or simply keeping sight of children outdoors. A downstairs WC and a practical utility room add further functionality, with the utility offering clear potential to become a fifth bedroom or a dedicated workspace if required.

The first floor provides four well-sized bedrooms, three of them comfortable doubles, giving plenty of scope for children, guests, or home working. A family bathroom with a classic white suite serves this level.

The outside areas complement the interior well. A private driveway and garage offer reliable parking and storage, while the enclosed rear garden creates a secure setting for children to play. A patio area and established planting provide a pleasant backdrop for outdoor relaxation.

The setting is particularly appealing for families, with Illminster Avenue Nursery and Knowle Park Primary School both within easy reach on foot.
