LIFE AT LEE BAY

Lee Bay offers a rare combination of coast, countryside and village life. Tucked into a wooded valley between Woolacombe and Ilfracombe, the village is surrounded by dramatic cliffs, sheltered coves and beautiful walking country, yet retains a genuine sense of community.

From the house, days can begin with a walk down to the bay, a swim or paddle, followed by coffee at home overlooking the surrounding landscape. The South West Coast Path and miles of coastal and woodland walks are close at hand, while the village itself is home to St Matthew's Church, Lee Memorial Hall, the Old School Room Craft Gallery and the much-loved Grampus Inn.

For wider adventures, Woolacombe's three miles of golden sand are nearby, with surfing, swimming, cafés and restaurants, while Ilfracombe offers its harbour, galleries and restaurants. Beyond, Exmoor National Park provides miles of open moorland, coastline and dark skies to explore.

Lee Bay is a boutique coastal development comprising just 16 apartments and duplexes, three four-bedroom houses and one four-bedroom single-storey home, set within extensive landscaped communal grounds. The architecture has been designed to follow the natural contours of the valley and keep the landscape at the forefront.

The neighbouring land has been acquired by the National Trust, and offers a new car park and public facilities which improves access to the bay while respecting this sensitive coastal setting.
