The ground floor is entered through a useful rear porch, which provides access to the wc, store and former garage, now converted to create a flexible additional room.

The new kitchen is fitted with a range of units and incorporates an oil-fired Esse, which also provides the central heating. The adjoining dining room has a broad bay window overlooking the front garden and enjoys good natural light.

Across the staircase hall, the sitting room has a further bay window overlooking the garden and a multi-fuel stove providing a focal point. The hall provides access to the front of the house and connects the principal ground-floor rooms.

On the first floor are three bedrooms, comprising two doubles and a single, together with a newly refitted shower room with shower enclosure, wc, wash basin and vanity unit.

Outside

Lyngarth Farm is approached by a short private driveway providing parking for several vehicles and access to the double car port.

The farmhouse stands within substantial, established gardens extending to all sides of the house. Principally laid to lawn, the gardens are complemented by mature shrubs, established trees, extensive fruit trees and a variety of flowering plants, creating an attractive setting and providing a good degree of privacy.
