Agent's Thoughts. There is something genuinely different about this property. It is not simply a detached bungalow with additional accommodation; it is the position, plot, privacy and versatility that make it stand apart. To be tucked away at the end of a quiet lane, away from passing traffic and surrounded by such a substantial garden, yet remain within a well regarded village with a popular local primary school and convenient access towards Basingstoke and the wider commuter network, is a particularly appealing combination. The improvements carried out by the current owners also provide confidence that many of the significant maintenance considerations have already been addressed, allowing the next owner to concentrate on making the property their own. For the right buyer, this could be a very special home. Peaceful, private, versatile and exceptionally well positioned, it offers the rare opportunity to step away from the hustle and bustle without stepping away from village life and everyday convenience.
