"One of the things we've loved most is how easy life is here. At the weekends we can walk out the front door to grab a coffee, browse the independent shops or head out for dinner without needing the car. Everything we need is within walking distance, including work and our son's nursery, which has made day-to-day life so convenient. More than anything though, we've loved the friendly, welcoming community feel – it's always felt like a lovely place to come home to."
