About this property

This handsome Edwardian mid terrace dates back to the early 1900's and is characterized by a focus on space, light, and comfort, typically featuring the desirable red brick elevation which creates excellent curb appeal. Internally this home delivers a welcoming entrance hall which leads to a light filled bay fronted living room with elegant feature fireplace. To second principal reception room delivers an enormous amount of space which spills over into the large galley style kitchen which overlooks an impeccable spacious private garden. To the first floor there are two large well appointed double bedrooms with tall ceilings, with a nod to traditional charm, creating a space that feels both current and rooted in character. The family bathroom further impresses in it's size with a stylish four piece suite catering for the whole family. To the second floor there is a third double bedroom which balances modern functionality and could be utilised as a home office as the top floor will deliver excellent peace and quiet for any working environment. Externally the property has an astonishing plot with a private patio area immediately beyond the kitchen and a large garden which is ideal for any discerning buyer.
