CONFUSED?

Confused by connectivity?
There are three ways we connect you to our broadband network

Fibre to the Premise (FTTP)
Download speeds of up to 1,800 Mbps
This is the fastest way to connect to the broadband network. It involves laying a fibre optic cable from the exchange to your home or business premises.

Fibre to the Cabinet (FTTC)
Download speeds of up to 330Mbps
This involves laying a fibre optic cable from the exchange to a cabinet near your home or business premises. The connection is then made via a standard copper cable to your home or business premises.

Copper network (ADSL)
Download speeds of up to 24Mbps
This involves using the standard copper telephone line to connect to the broadband network.
