GENERAL COMMENTS

Gulls Cry is a distinctive detached home occupying an elevated position in the popular north Cornish coastal village of Porthtowan.

Arranged on a reverse-level layout to maximise the outlook, the principal living accommodation opens onto a generous sea-facing balcony with panoramic views across the village, surrounding countryside, beach and coastline towards St Ives.

Extending to approximately 1,657 sq ft, the light and well-proportioned accommodation is arranged over two floors and offers a flexible layout for family living and visiting guests. An entrance-level bedroom and nearby shower room provide useful guest or more accessible accommodation, while three further bedrooms occupy the lower ground floor, including the master bedroom with an en-suite shower room.

Outside are landscaped gardens, decked terraces, mature coastal planting and sheltered seating areas, together with driveway parking for three or four cars.

THE PROPERTY

The entrance hall is a welcoming introduction to the house, with timber flooring and pale blue joinery. Doors lead to the kitchen/dining room, sitting room, bedroom three and shower room, while stairs descend to the lower ground floor.

The kitchen/dining room is fitted with timber-fronted cabinetry, generous work surfaces and a substantial peninsula providing additional storage, preparation space and informal seating. It opens into the spacious sitting room, where broad glazed bifolding doors frame the coastal views and lead directly onto the balcony. Further features include a study area, timber flooring, a wood-burning stove and ample space for a variety of seating arrangements.

Philip Martin

Bedroom three is a well-proportioned double room with built-in storage and a separate shower room nearby.

On the lower ground floor are three further bedrooms, a family bathroom, utility room and storage. The master bedroom has fitted storage, an en-suite shower room and French doors opening onto the garden terrace. Bedroom two also has direct garden access, while bedroom four is suitable as a bedroom, nursery, study or home office.

The family bathroom includes a freestanding roll-top bath and separate shower. A generous utility room, linen cupboard and substantial external store provide useful space for household storage, surfboards and outdoor equipment, with the store also suitable for use as a hobby room or workshop.

PORTHTOWAN

Porthtowan is a highly regarded coastal village on Cornwall's north coast, renowned for its sandy beach, dramatic cliffs and excellent access to the South West Coast Path.

The beach is popular with surfers, swimmers and families, while the village provides a range of local facilities including cafés, a beach bar, shop and seasonal amenities. The surrounding coastline offers excellent walking, with routes extending towards Chapel Porth, St Agnes and beyond. Redruth and Truro provide a broader range of shopping, educational and professional facilities, while the A30 offers convenient access to the wider county. St Ives lies further along the north coast and can be seen from the property's elevated position.
