Offers In The Region Of Nethergate Street, Clare

A truly exceptional and historically significant Grade II listed residence, The Old Court is an important period property occupying a highly regarded position on Nethergate Street in the sought-after Suffolk town of Clare. Formerly serving as the town's police station and court, the property retains its original police cells and offers a remarkable combination of historic character, substantial accommodation and outstanding versatility.

The principal house is approached via a welcoming entrance hall and provides an impressive range of accommodation arranged over two floors. The ground floor includes a generous living room, formal reception room, dining room, study, store and laundry room, together with a well-appointed kitchen and separate breakfast room. The arrangement provides excellent space for both family life and entertaining, with numerous reception areas allowing the accommodation to be adapted to individual requirements.

A particularly notable feature of The Old Court is the historic former police cells, which remain within the property and provide a fascinating insight into its former civic use.

The first floor of the main house provides four substantial bedrooms, together with bathroom facilities. The rooms are well proportioned and offer considerable flexibility, with the property retaining a wealth of character throughout.

The first floor of the principal house provides four generously proportioned bedrooms, together with bathroom facilities.
